Nova Doubles Chemical Metrology Production Capacity and Expands Global Presence with New Manufacturing Facility and Office in Germany

REHOVOT, Israel, January 28, 2025—Nova (Nasdaq: NVMI) announced today the opening of a new manufacturing facility and office in Germany, a milestone in the Company’s long-term strategy to enhance its global footprint and deepen local partnerships. This expansion will significantly increase manufacturing capacity and leverage advanced technologies to meet rising demand for Nova’s tools.

Located in Bad Urach, Germany, the new facility combines state-of-the-art manufacturing with a research and development center focused on chemical metrology. Doubling the capacity of Nova’s Chemical Metrology Division, the new site will enhance and foster collaboration by bringing all division teams together in one location. Designed with the highest standards of sustainability, the space features geothermal heating and cooling, solar power, natural light utilization, and efficient insulation to minimize environmental impact.

“This new facility is a major investment in Nova’s future”, said Gabi Sharon, Nova’s COO. “It reflects our commitment to sustainability, promotes collaboration, and enhances creativity, productivity and the employee experience.”
